

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am going with a boy whom I love very much and he loves me, and my parents both dislike him because he smokes cigars and they won't allow him to call on Sunday. We are never together. He is nice and has never acted out of the way toward me.

If you were to write to me, what would you write to me? What would you do? He knows my parents are against his going with me, and he won't force himself in their way. My parents are cross to me and I am so much I am miserable.

CUTIE S.

My dear, a girl seldom loses out when she leads what her parents think is best for her. This young man may seem all right to you, but you will not gain anything if you meet him or write to him secretly. He above that sort of thing. I judge from your letter that you are still quite young. Wait until you are at least 18 before deciding that you are in love with anybody. Meantime, have a good time with your girl and boy friends. You will think you are in love many times before you finally fall in love for keeps.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have a gray and white wool cap. How can I clean it so the color won't run and so it will not shrink?

(2) Which is better for the scalp and for the hair, kerosene or vaseline, and how should it be used?

(3) Will vaseline clog the pores?

(4) Is it the gentleman's place to ask if he can call on a lady and keep her company, or is it the lady's place to invite him?

LONESOME.

(1) Make a suds of good white soap with warm (not hot) water. Wash the cap in this, without rubbing, but squeezing it up and down and squeezing between the hands. Rinse it in clean soapy water of the same temperature, squeeze it out and hang it in a windy place to dry. It should come out soft and without shrinking.

(2) Kerosene—a little brushed into the hair twice a week—is a disinfectant as well as a hair tonic. Vaseline, rubbed into the scalp daily, aids hair growth. Both have about the same qualities.

(3) No.

(4) At first you might say you would be pleased to have him call some time when he feels like it. If he doesn't come, don't ask him again.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a boy of 18 years old; how can I win a girl? How can I tell whether she loves me or not? I have been writing to her three months and her letters are awfully nice, but when I am around she loves someone else.

(2) How can I get rid of blackheads?

(3) What is good for dandruff?

LONESOME BILL.

(1) Visit her as often as you can and be entertaining when you call on her. Send her flowers and candy. Invite her to amusements that she likes. Be so nice to her in every way that she can't help liking you. When you are quite sure she likes you, tell her you love her and want her for your wife. If she says she is willing to marry you, then you may be sure she loves you.

(2) Use good soap and water twice a day. Then do like the girls do. After washing the face at night with hot water and soap, rinse well with clear, warm water, then massage the face well with a good cleansing cream (buy it in the drug store). After the massage, wipe off all the cream. When blackheads are soft, prick with a sterilized needle, press out and anoint with a little peroxide. Drink lots of pure water, eat plenty of fresh fruit and vegetables and no candy, pastry or rich gravies. Keep the bowels open.

(3) Rub alcohol into the scalp daily. Keep brushes and combs absolutely clean.

Women Worth While.

Mrs. Joseph P. Tumulty.

BY SELENE ARMSTRONG HARMON.

Mrs. Joseph P. Tumulty is the only woman in Washington who is ever honored by an informal call from the president of the United States. President Wilson not infrequently "just drops in" at her house in the course of an afternoon's automobile ride, to chat after Mrs. Tumulty's health, to ask a moment with her husband, his secretary, and most especially to pass the time of day with the Tumulty children.

When the White house car draws up at the front door of the Tumulty house, there is a mad scamper of 12 little feet from the nursery to the front door. For the six Tumulty children are on intimate terms with the president, and with every member of his family.

When Jessie Wilson was married to Francis B. Sayre last November little Mary Tumulty was about as keenly interested in the details of the wedding preparations as was the bride herself. She received, at the particular request of Miss Wilson, an invitation addressed especially to her tiny self. And when the hour for the wedding arrived, little Miss Tumulty, white frocked, blue ribboned, her blonde curls in order, her eyes shining with excitement, was one of the most interested of spectators.

If one approaches Secretary Tumulty on a busy day at the executive offices of the White house, and asks him for the names of all his children, he is as likely as not to call on one of the under-secretaries for assistance in setting them down, with their respective ages opposite. Mrs. Tumulty, however, knows the list by heart, and can even say it backward. For the main business of her life is the rearing and educating of their six children.

Her position in Washington's official life, as wife of the secretary to the president, gives her entree to that cosmopolitan society at the capitol which the average woman would find irresistible. Mrs. Tumulty, however, cares little for it. About the only function which she and Mr. Tumulty thus far attended during the present season in Washington are the White house wedding, and cabinet dinners.

Mr. and Mrs. Tumulty have been married 10 years. As children, they were playmates together at the school of St. Bride's in Jersey City. Theirs, however, was not a romance of childhood. They worked their fractions together, and later conjugated their Latin verbs from the same grammar, without having their minds distracted by thought of romance. When the proper time came, the two young people fell desperately in love with each other, and were married at St. Bridget's church in Jersey City. Before her marriage, Mrs. Tumulty was Miss Mary Byrne, daughter of Patrick Byrne, a prominent contractor and builder of Jersey City.

Honolulu—In the presence of a room full of diners in the Seaside hotel a man known by the name of Woodward, who arrived yesterday on the steamer Sonoma, shot and killed his former wife and then committed suicide. The woman had married Charles A. Stewart of San Francisco last Saturday.

Nature never intended woman to be delicate, ailing, or a sufferer from "nerves." Women in middle age complain of "hot flashes."
